Re: Wage negotiations at UCT sticky

Good day,

Your article titled "Wage negotiations at UCT sticky" (The New Age, 09 February 2016, Pg 3) refers.

The article reports on the ongoing negotiations at the University of Cape Town but does not include the institution's side of the story. Two unions are quoted in the article but there is no comment included from UCT. What is worse is that this comment was sought by yourself and provided by us within an hour of receiving your email. You even acknowledged receipt of our response. However, you chose not to include our comment in the story.

Kindly let us know why our side of the story was not include for balance and fairness. Furthermore, please let us know what measures are you going to take to redress this situation and address the one-sided impression that has been created by your story.

Regards,

Elijah Moholola
